2) The D.B. proposes to levy a cess of six pies in the rupee. This rate is agreed to only by four out of ten Taluk Bds., while the rest are in favour of a lower rate. Whether the higher rate can be levied uniformly in all the Talukas is a matter for orders.

3) Again the proposal of the D.B. is not supported by at least three fourths of the members present at the meeting. The resolution of the B. does not therefore seem to be valid.
